

(From the London Punch.)
LADIES' LUGGAGE.
How happy is the single life
Of all those priests and monks!
Not one of whom has got a wife
To bother him with trunks,
And handbags, a load too great
For man or horse to bear,
Which rails always charge for, over-weight,
And rails ask double fare.

Tell me, as with your bride you part,
Distracts your anxious mind,
How this portmanteau should be lost,
Or that be left behind;
Her baggage as you travel down—
Life's hills, weighty and more,
And still, as bolder grows your crown,
Becomes a greater bore.

stretched by fashion tile and rain,
Hoop-petticoats and veils,
Now British females, to contain,
Requires no end of chest,
To which bags, baskets, bundles, add,
Too numerous to name,
Enough to drive a poor man mad,
A Job with rage inflame.

The cab keeps swaying o'er your head,
With luggage piled above,
Of overturn you ride in dread,
With her whom you should love;
Then you, the station when you gal,
Must see that number stowed,
And fears about it in the train,
Your heart and soul corrode.

Thus does your wife each journey spoil,
Of yours that she partakes,
That keeps you on the frol and toil,
Your peace and comfort breaks,
With all those boxes, all her things,
(How many!) to enclose,
The fair Encumbrance on you brings
A wagon-load of woes.

COVERDALE MARRIED.

The Sequel and Conclusion of Harry Coverdale's Courtship.

If Alice had come home alone, what then? Probably Harry's gladness and relief from anxiety would have put down his crossness; but Mrs. Colonel Blusterton was with her, and that lady in capacity of escort did not feel she had discharged her duty by setting her down at her own door. She went in. Now Harry was proud; he had that true English pride which will not show feeling before strangers—and that kept him cold. He was more than cold—he was cross, and not very well inclined to be even civil; for directly Mrs. Blusterton stalked into the room he saw it all. He knew that she knew 'all about it.' That she was there as a guard—a guard to his Alice against him. He thought he saw defiance in her eye and in her attitude. He thought he heard it in her voice when she said, 'There, Mr. Coverdale, I have brought your wife home safe, you see.'

Of course Harry ought to have said he was 'much obliged' and 'very glad,' but he did not feel so, and he did not look so, and he did not say so. What he did say was that it was 'very late.'

'Not so very late,' said Mrs. Blusterton; 'I dare say now you have not been home long.'

'I have been home four or five hours,' said Harry.

If Harry had only seen Alice then—seen how sorry she looked because she had stayed so long—what came to pass might not have happened; but he did not see her, he only saw the delinquent face of Mrs. Blusterton as she replied, 'Well, I'm sure it's a wonder; you men don't often care how long you keep your wives waiting.'

'Permit me to say, Mrs. Blusterton,' said Harry, with dangerously formal politeness, 'that you do not know what I do nor what I care for.'

'Well, I know it's so with Bluster-ton, and I don't suppose you're much better than others. All the men are the same—as like as two peas.'

'You'll greatly oblige me, Mrs. Blusterton, by minding your own business.'

Mrs. Blusterton's red face grew redder than ever as she answered, that was all very well—that she couldn't help feeling some pity for a poor young creature—that she knew what the said poor young creature would have to go through—and that for her part she wished women had her spirit—she wished she had the management of some of their husbands, that was all.

This was rather too much for Harry to bear. He could be quiet, very quiet up to a certain point. Beyond that he was likely to be very explosive, and now he broke out into a string of words which filled Alice with dismay, and raised the wrath of Mrs. Blusterton to the uttermost. In fact, he forgot himself, and forgot too what perhaps it was more difficult to remember, that Mrs. Blusterton was a lady, and so she gathered from his unconnected sentences that Blusterton was a fool, and that she was a mischief-making old cat, and if he had her to deal with he'd break her in or break—Mrs. Blusterton did not wait to hear the remainder. Before Alice could interpose she was moving out of the room with the audible remark that the man was a perfect brute, and made her way to the door attended by parting compliments from Harry, which some people might think would not look very nicely on paper. When Harry turned round Alice was weeping helplessly on the sofa, but his blood was up as it is called, and he was not to be moved by tears, so telling her that he hoped she had made mischief enough, he left her to go to bed alone.

All this was very wrong, and to some people who have not had much experience it will sound very improbable, but those who 'know the world' will not be so likely to regard it in that light. What we learn from revelations of the ecclesiastical courts teaches us that faults of 'temper' are at the bottom of most matrimonial grievances, and that in such cases the most inveterate hatreds grow out of the minutest circumstances, as naturally as the gigantic oak out of the tiny acorn.

Statistics of Headaches.

The Medical Times and Gazette contains some interesting medical data, obtained by inquiries made in the usual course of professional experience, concerning the causes of headache. Of ninety cases cited, seventy-six were females—a number which establishes pretty strongly the fact testified to by most of the old writers, that females are more frequently sufferers. Of the seventy-six females, forty were single. The predisposition in the case of females, is believed to originate in the nervous system—susceptibility of nervous disorder being much oftener found in the female than in the male subject. It is likely to exist in organisms which evidence a capability of so much firmness and delicacy of perception, united with so much proneness to emotional excitement, and in which the functions of organic life are observed to be so readily wrought by passing states of thought, sensation and emotion. Of the exciting causes, emotional disturbance has the highest number. Out of 90 cases, 33 declared this to be one of the causes of their attacks; Judge Richardson, of Auburn, N. Y., and aged about 36. She leaves six children, three boys, named Calhoun, Joseph and Fernando—and three girls.—N. Y. Com. Ad.

FROM THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—We have further advices from the Cape. A letter of the 22d of October says:—

A fearful storm had prevailed off the coast, and no less than ten first class ships were completely wrecked. The news caused much anxiety on 'Change at Liverpool, as many of the ill-fated vessels were owned in that city; one of them, the Star of the East, having a valuable cargo on board. She was bound from the East Indies, and owned by Jas. Beazley, Esq., of Liverpool.

The names of the wrecked vessels are:—Wigrams; Surat, Capt. Graham, from Penang to London; Jesselara, Chasseur, Witch of the wave, Prince Woronzoff, Lyme, Regis, Governess, Star of the East, and Arabin.

The news at present is very vague, and the fate of the crews of the unfortunate ships is, as yet, a mystery.

CLIPPINGS.

The Legislature of Virginia have unanimously passed resolutions approving of the sentence of Cook and the other prisoners and refusing all interference in their behalf.

The Albany Argus has seen the statement that the aggregate of cold is greater the present year than during any for seventy years past, except that of 1845.

The Governor of Kentucky recommends the completion of the geological survey of that state.—He states also that the citizens of Kentucky are opposed to the reopening of the African slave trade.

An effigy of Gov. Wise was found suspended the other day upon the premises of a Democrat in Reeding, Mass. The proprietor was very indignant, and having discovered the perpetrators, will prosecute them for trespass.

Two men, one named John Basson, the other, John Gaskins, while leaning against the rail of the steamboat Mount Pleasant, off Castle Pinckney, S. C., a few days ago, were drowned by the rail giving way and precipitating them into the water.

Gerrit Smith's wife, by the consent of her husband's physician, visited him at Utica, on Tuesday last. So nearly restored to mental and bodily health is this gentleman that his family took to a reunion of all its members at Peterboro, on Christmas Day.

Quite an exciting scene was witnessed at the railroad depot in Columbus, Ohio, on a recent morning, when a colored woman, with half a dozen female friends assailed the partner of her hopes, whom she had detected in an attempt to elope with a rival. She detained him for a single day only, as a similar attempt on the succeeding morning proved successful.

By the will of the late Lewis V. Christman, of Warren county, N. C., ten favorite slaves have been liberated, and a sum of $10,000 left to be divided among them when they leave the state. The residue of the property, consisting of about 100 slaves and a very large quantity of land is willed to D. L. Jones, Esq., proprietor of the White Sulphur Springs, Warren county.

A report was current last week in Brighton, C. W., that a man from the back country had been selling beef and pork in Coborne and Brighton which had been killed after being bitten by a mad dog. The report was disbelieved at first, but it was subsequently found to be too true, and the perpetrator of the act has been examined before a magistrate at Coborne, and bound over to appear for trial.

A correspondent of the Press, speaking of the opening of Congress, says: 'Sickles was not present when his name was called, but entered before the roll was gotten through. He walked placidly round the centre row of seats and dropped into a seat on the third bench. He looked well, and has grown his beard so as to make a tolerably effective disguise. He was the only military man in that large assemblage. He was not spoken to.'

The clerks in the St. Louis Post Office 'struck' on Saturday last, because the office was not warmed, the Treasury Department at Washington refusing to authorise or furnish the necessary heating apparatus. The citizens had to wait twenty-four hours for their mail matter, in consequence, and would have been compelled to wait still longer but for the fact that the postmaster took on himself the responsibility of putting up stoves, and then telegraphed the fact to Washington.

When the man came aboard the boat, he was reeking with the exhalations of the skin, and panting like a fallendeer. He ran to the bar and called for a drink of brandy first, and water next. He was permitted to drink a little of both, and would have no doubt, drunk a gallon of water had it been allowed. Mercy to the man compelled the bar tender to stop him by force. The man slept while the boat was crossing that night, and left the next morning apparently none the worse for the race against the steamboat. He will, no doubt, put himself in training as a runner, and will, ere long, lecture on his specialty in physical culture—running.

GENERAL NEWS.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. FERNANDO WOOD.—We have to record, to-day, the sudden decease of Mrs. Fernando Wood, the wife of the Mayor elect of this city. She died, we learn, at an early hour this morning, leaving an infant. The sad event, we believe, was entirely unanticipated, and is probably to be attributed mainly to the mental excitement which, as an attached and loving wife, Mrs. Wood could scarcely be exempt from for the last few weeks. It is sad to reflect that just Mr. Wood has reached the goal of his ambition the sun of his domestic happiness should thus in darkness, and thus with his public honors comes the intensest private sorrow that a man can know. Forgetting at such an hour all other feelings and considerations, Mr. Wood's fellow citizens cannot forbear condolence and sympathy with one who is thus called from the sunlight of life into the deep gloom of crushed affections and heartfelt solitude. Mrs. Wood's funeral will take place on Monday next, as will be seen by the announcement under our obituary head.

We have learned, since the above was written, that Mr. Wood is absent at Washington, and there the sad intelligence of his bereavement has been sent by telegraph.

Mrs. Wood was a daughter of the late

Judge Richardson, of Auburn, N. Y., and aged about 36. She leaves six children, three boys, named Calhoun, Joseph and Fernando—and three girls.—N. Y. Com.

Hay is selling in Toronto at $30 per ton and is sparingly offered and of poor quality at that. Straw is worth $14 per ton and is also scarce.

There are in the United States at present forty-eight Catholic Archbishops and Bishops, two mitred Abbots, and 2,223 secular and regular priests.

The sum of $50,000 has already been subscribed for the proposed line of packets between Richmond and Liverpool, with a view to the establishment of direct trade between the two cities. The amount required is $100,000.

A vessel recently arrived in England from Sebastopol, with a cargo of two hundred and thirty-seven tons of human bones to be ground up for manure. They are regiments of soldiers in a reduced form.

The Kentucky Lunatic Asylum has had 2,814 patients since it was opened in 1824; of this number 863 have been discharged cured. The Governor recommends the Legislature to pass a law forbidding marriage between first cousins.

The Philadelphia Ledger mentions a singular fact in connection with the recent coal oil discoveries in Pennsylvania. In many places in the Valley of Oil Creek the ground is covered with pits, evidently dug for the purpose of gathering oil, and at a period so remote that trees 250 years old are growing over them.

The Boston Transcript says, 'The sewing-circle connected with one of the churches in a neighboring city met yesterday, and there was the usual full attendance. Contrary to his custom, the pastor was not present, and in the evening he was sent for.'

Entering the room, he looked around upon the large company, and with a good-natured smile addressed his parishioners as follows:—'I did not come out to-night, my friends, until sent for, because I did not suppose there would be any meeting. I am truly amazed to find so gaudy a number assembled despite the severe storm. Last Sunday, when the weather was not one quarter so bad as now, but very few of you were at church. I suppose I must attribute your presence to-night, however, to the interest you take in the approaching fair.'

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

DR. DUNIGAN'S Golden Periodical Pills for Females. Perfectly harmless, yet wonderfully and powerfully curative in correcting, regulating, and removing all infirmities from whatever cause.

All medical men know, as well, many others that no female can enjoy good health, unless she is regular; and whenever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health begins immediately to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumption among young females. Headache, Pain in the Side, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Food, and Disturbed Sleep, do not always arise from the interruption of nature; and whenver that is the case, the Pills will invariably remedy all these evils; and may always be used successfully as a preventive.—Price $1 per box. For sale at 132 Thames street, corner Church; etc., and at 12 Washington Square, opposite the House. Order for the trade so as to less will be supplied at lowest manufacturer's prices. Ladies by enclosing $1 to STURGIS & CO., Box 801, New York Post Office, can have the Pills sent confidentially by mail to any part of the city or country.

SPANISH GOLDEN MIXTURE.
FOR FEMALES.

THIS elegant vegetable compound has long been used by the Spanish ladies, for regulating the derangements of the female system, and for improving the general health and beautifying the complexion. It is a warming, stimulating and tonic cordial; enriching and purifying the blood, quickening the circulation, imparting color to the lips and cheeks, brilliancy to the eyes, and a clearness and fitness to the complexion not attainable by any other means.

"It is a Female Medicine it has no equal.

It will remove female obstructions when all other remedies have failed, and a few doses taken for one week before the monthly period will prevent all obstructions from any cause whatever. This may seem incredible, but try it. If it fail in any case the price will be returned. Sent to any part of the country.
